

Excess weight and body fat around your waist can increase your risk of cancer. Women should keep their waist below 80 cm, and men below 94 cm. Maintain a healthy weight by eating healthy food and by not having more than one alcoholic drink per day. Women who are at an increased risk of breast cancer are advised not to drink any alcohol at all. If you still carry too much weight, take action yourself and talk to your doctor or a nutritionist.

Keep your tummy under control

Higher concentrations of certain hormones can increase the risk of cancer. Physical exercise keeps your hormone levels healthy and strengthens your immune system. It also helps to prevent obesity. You can achieve a lot by exercising at least 30 minutes every day. There are many ways to be physically active: you can take the stairs instead of the elevator, get off the bus one stop earlier or go for a walk during your lunch break. The most important thing is to choose something you love doing. Then it will be easy to stay active!

Physical activity is essential

Did you know that scientific research has shown that 1 in 3 cancer diagnoses can be avoided by adopting a healthy and more balanced lifestyle?

PREVENTION

100,000 women in Belgium are now fighting breast cancer. About 10,500 patients get diagnosed in this country every year. That means 29 new diagnoses a day. 1 in 9 women will be affected by the disease in the course of her life, making breast cancer the most common form of cancer for women, both young and old. However, breast cancer can also affect men: about 100 men living in Belgium get the disease each year.

SOME EYE-OPENING FIGURES

SUPPORT FOR PATIENTS

When someone is diagnosed with breast cancer, the medical staff will mainly be paying attention to the treatment. This is obviously necessary, but not sufficient. Often the diagnosis has been made and patients leave the doctor's surgery. They often feel a great deal of anxiety and have many questions about the future. That is why clear and transparent communication is very important. Pink Ribbon's website and concrete projects aim to meet this clear need for support and communication. The 'Geknipt voor haar / Coupe de coeur' project allows people to donate their ponytail to someone who has unfortunately lost all their hair after chemotherapy. Pink Monday aims to raise the subject of breast cancer in the workplace. Employers, employees, colleagues, self-employed people and health care providers can visit our website for useful tips, tricks and tailor-made information. The Pink Ribbon walking groups invite you to get more exercise to prevent breast cancer, avoid a relapse or listen to fellow cancer patients.

You will be more or less at risk of developing breast cancer depending on your age, lifestyle and (family) history. So it is important to be well acquainted with your own breasts: look at your breasts and feel each breast regularly. This way, you will notice any changes sooner. Changes in your breasts can be harmless, but they can also be a sign of breast cancer. So don't wait too long and make sure to discuss any change with your doctor straight away. The 9 breast cancer warning signs listed in this brochure can help you with this.

Warning signs

Women aged 50 to 69 are invited to have a free mammogram (breast X-ray screening) every two years. This free examination can detect a possible tumour before any visible symptoms appear. Of course, younger women and men can also be affected by breast cancer. That is why we have created the mammomQuiz. How well do you know your own breasts? Go to www.mammomQuiz.be or scan the QR code here and test yourself!

MammomQuiz

Did you know that when diagnosed early, 9 out of 10 breast cancer patients will still be alive after 5 years and the majority will have beaten the disease? Women aged 50 and over are most at risk of breast cancer. As many as 3 quarters of all cases occur in this age group. The sooner breast cancer is detected and diagnosed, the less invasive the treatment will be and the greater the chances of it being cured.

EARLY DETECTION

NOBODY SHOULD EVER FIGHT THIS DISEASE ALONE!

Who is Pink Ribbon?

Pink Ribbon is Belgium's national breast cancer organisation. It constantly strives to improve the medical treatment for breast cancer and enhance the quality of life of (former) breast cancer patients. Our mission is clear: we want to eliminate the disease and reduce its impact. To this end, we set up various projects in Belgium as part of our 3 pillars: breast cancer prevention and early detection and psychosocial support to (former) patients and the people around them. To finance these projects, we raise funds that are managed by the King Baudouin Foundation.

Want to do your bit?

There are several ways you can help Pink Ribbon. You can make a donation to the King Baudouin Foundation account number (IBAN: BE10 0000 0000 0404) with reference 192/0810/00092. Every donation large or small will help us to achieve our mission. Also, did you know that donations starting from €40 are tax deductible?

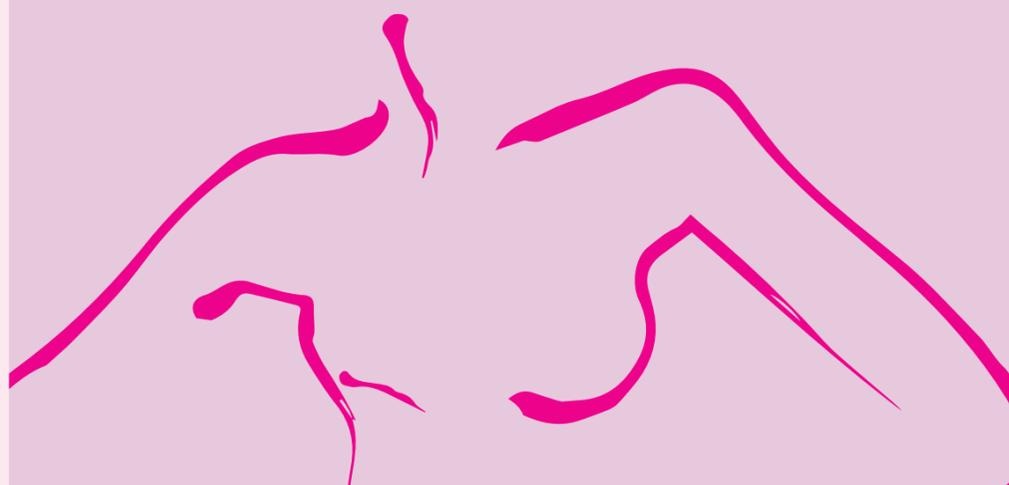

Of course, there are also lots of other personal ways to support the fight against breast cancer. Perhaps you would like to dedicate your birthday to Pink Ribbon, organise a big biscuit baking campaign or invite your entire neighbourhood to high tea? Whatever your fund raising idea, we can put all donations to good use. So take a look at the Pink Support platform and let your inspiration run wild! On the platform, you can also participate in our walking challenge The Pink Walk. We ask everyone to take 10.000 steps every day to support the fight against breast cancer and for more exercise.

Besides creating a fundraiser and walking along in The Pink Walk, you can also support (ex-)breast cancer patients by donating your hair to 'Geknipt voor haar / Coupe de coeur'. We collect ponytails that are at least 25cm long. But the longer your hair, the more valuable the ponytail. You can request a free donation envelope at www.pink-ribbon.be/info/geknipt-voor-haar-enveloppe.
